Metropolitan Opera House Packed To Hear The Republican Nominee

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4—Gov. John W. Bricker, of Ohio, Republican nominee for Vice President, charged last night that Sidney Hillman, Earl Browder and their Communist fellow travelers, striving desperately to take over this Government of ours while our sons and daughters are away on home fighting our battles.

Mr. A. M. Witwer Conducts Conference at Hulmeville

HULMEVILLE, Nov. 4—The 4th quarterly conference of Neshaunim Methodist Church was conducted last evening in Epworth Hall of the church, with Dr. Albert M. Witwer, superintendent of the North District, Philadelphia Conference, presiding.

Thirty-five members of the church, of which the Rev. Richard G. Gay is pastor, attended, partaking of a covered-dish supper.

Reports were presented by officers of all organizations, these showing a number of improvements in the church and church property during the past year. The improvements, all of which were reported to have been completed, included the drilling of an artesian well, the installation of new heater for the main auditorium, and the placing of a doorway from the side hall-way into the main auditorium. It was also reported that a junior department had been created in the Sunday school, and that gowns had been purchased for the choir members.

The licenses of two exhorters, Samuel J. Hlick and Kenneth G. Witwer, were renewed, and a license was exhorter granted to Stephen Patton, Jr., because of his inclination toward the Christian ministry.

New officers for steward and trustees boards were named, and committees selected for these groups. The terms of two trustees, having expired, namely C. Wesley Lachner and George Hibbs, they were re-elected. One trustee is yet to be named.

Dr. Witwer gave a preview of the Crusade for Christ, indicating the part that Hulmeville church members are asked to play. The quota assigned to the North District in the period covering the next three conference dates is $125,000, with the local church's quota being $750. The funds secured during the crusade will be used for religious reconstruction work throughout the world, and for various mission activities. Rebuilding of church edifices, re-establishing of missions, etc., are included, the main emphasis of the crusade being on evangelistic rebuilding and revitalizing of the church.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the affair last evening included: the Rev. and Mrs. Gay, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Claus, Mr. and Mrs. George Hibbs, Mrs. Samuel K. Faust, George Douglas.

UP-TO-PRESS-TIME WAR BULLETINS (By International News Service)

ALLIED ARMIES WITHIN 21 MILES OF COLOGNE

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force—Allied armies, fanning out in coordinated drives, slammed forward under an aerial cover of U. S. fighter-bombers to within less than 27 miles of Cologne today and, far to the west, tightened a rapidly-closing noose about the German defenders of Walcheren Island.

Ground forces of the first American Army pressed deeper into the Reich, developing their three-day old push toward Cologne after waves of low-flying planes dealt destruction among the ranks of weary Nazi troops. Simultaneously, Canadian units which fought their way across the causeway from South Beveland island to Walcheren widened their beachhead on that Dutch Island by another 2,000 yards, official spokesmen at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced.

Other Maple Leaf fighters slammed northward across tenuous German escape routes and, despite heavy opposition, captured the town of Welberg, a mile and a half southeast of Steenberg.

VIRTUAL LIBERATION OF ALL GREECE REPORTED

Rome—The virtual liberation of all Greece from Nazi control was reported today. With British patrols of the land army of the Adriatic pressing northward through Greece close to the Yugoslav frontier, Royal Air Force reconnaissance men based in Greece declared that over the entire area north and northwest of Salonika they could find no sign of retreating German columns trying to escape through southern Serbia and Albania.

A third Oak Leaf Cluster to his air medal has been awarded to 2nd Lt. Richard Wasser, 23, of Bedminster, for "courage, coolness and skill" while participating in bombing attacks upon war plants in Germany and upon military defense points and communication lines in support of the Allied ground forces in western Europe.

Lt. Wasser is a navigator of an Eighth Air Force B-17 Flying Fortress in the 385th bombardment group.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon F. Wasser, Bedminster. His wife, the former Miss Dorothy A. Kelly, lives at Plumsteadville.

Quakertown Rotarians on Wednesday evening laid aside the cares and responsibilities of business and professional life and enjoyed a Halloween party at the Red Lion Hotel, Quakertown.

This was a "Ladies' Night" affair and many of the members and their wives were masked and costumed, which added mystery to the early part of the gathering and many surprises when the masks were removed.

This event was sponsored by the special events committee, which was assisted by the wives of several of the Rotarians.

Games added to the enjoyment of the evening.

Rotarian Claude Renner, Perkasie, was a guest. Among the other guests was Major Ralph Wenrich Continued on Page Four

Estimated Goal Is $50,000; Dog Show Will Be Benefit

RECREATIONAL PARK

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 4—Raising funds toward an estimated goal of $50,000 to be used for the development of the war memorial for the men and women of Doylestown borough and Doylestown township, in the service, will get under way shortly.

At a meeting of the War Memorial Committee, Wednesday evening, the committee accepted the offer of the Bucks County Kennel Club to donate the profits of a sanctioned dog show to be held in the Doylestown Armory on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 17, to this fund. This will be a starter to the many events planned in the near future to raise money in addition to the personal subscriptions that will be solicited in the borough and township.

The offer from the Kennel Club was made by Willard H. Smith, an official of the club, an owner of Smithstone Kennels, Warrington.

Capt. Daniel D. Atkinson, chairman of the memorial committee, announced that he would appoint the important finance and publicity committees that will work together in presenting the community recreational park plans to the public.

At another meeting to be held on Wednesday night, December 13, in the court house, tentative plans and approximate costs of the recreational park will be submitted to the committee, by Russell B. Gulick and Raymond Ritzer, appointed to contact the necessary parties for that purpose.

Members of the committee will meet next Sunday afternoon at 1:30 at the offices of J. Carroll Molloy, Jr., South Main street, for further detail work in connection with the Continued on Page Four

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

The Hillman Denials

Washington, Nov. 2. THE defenders of Mr. Sidney Hillman, whose work in this campaign justifies the assertion that he, more than the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is the real manager of the Roosevelt fourth-term effort, are still denying that he is a Communist or has anything to do with the Communists. So is Mr. Hillman denying it. Every time Mr. Hillman opens his mouth to speak, which is fairly often, denials flow out in a steady stream.

JUST THIS week in a Washington speech he denied all over again all the things he had previously denied. Beyond all question, he is the greatest denier of this campaign—if not of all campaigns. It is true that he has had more things to deny than any other figure in the

ON THE OTHER FOOT (Doylestown Intelligencer)

It is illuminating to try out some of the Democratic campaign arguments, not on Governor Dewey for whom they were intended, but on the Democratic choice for Vice-President—the man who might be called upon to finish the contested Fourth Term.

The Democrats say, "don't swap horses, etc." Yet they swapped Vice-Presidential horses without batting an eye.

There has been some ridiculous talk about mysterious forces or men supposed to "control" Governor Dewey. What about Truman—is he controlled? Or controllable?

Well, he got into national politics because he handled several millions of dollars of local contracts in Missouri to the satisfaction of the Prendergast gang.

Boss Prendergast was so pleased that he rewarded him with a seat in the United States Senate. It was a substantial reward, for when the voters of Missouri kicked at being represented by Truman, the Prendergast boys found it necessary to vote 50,000 names from tombstones to make the Prendergast choice stick.

Later, Prendergast went to jail. Senator Truman made no bones over feeling a deep—and understandable—sense of obligation that not even the jailhouse walls could sever.

Does that background make it appear that Truman, should he become President, would stand on his own feet—or would he ride along on whatever gravy-train seemed most attractive? Would he be more likely to be a stalwart guardian of public interest, or a sugar-daddy for the political gangs?

Moreover, Truman has another political obligation which would haunt him as President.

The chain of obligation sounds a little like the story of the House That Jack Built.

Truman owes his nomination to Sidney Hillman, who owes his political ascendancy to the Political Action Committee plan worked out by Communist Earl Browder, who owes his liberty from Atlanta Penitentiary and thereby his opportunity to develop the plan to President Roosevelt, who owed his feeling of clemency toward Browder to motives never made entirely clear.

Whatever else this chain may establish, it certainly does not make Truman out to be a free agent!

We must have, says President Roosevelt, a chief executive in the present stage of the war and the peace negotiations who knows intimately both the foreign rulers and the foreign problems.

But the Democrats have put forward, as the potential backstop to President Roosevelt, a man totally devoid of either experience or knowledge in foreign affairs, and with no visible fixed principles to guide him in their absence.

Does America want to take a chance on having Truman as our international leader, wielding the vast and arbitrary power of treaty negotiation and foreign entanglement which the re-election of President Roosevelt would automatically give to the chief executive?

SHOW GUILD ITEMS

LANGHORNE, Nov. 4—A discussion on the subject of "Dental Health in Pennsylvania" was presented by Dr. Muriel Robinson, a director of dental education, Pennsylvania Dept. of Health, before members of Langhorne Sorosis Thursday afternoon in the library.

Dr. Robinson told how the state is striving to improve the dental health of the populace by establishing dental clinics in each congressional district. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Harry Williams, Jr., chairman of the welfare committee.

The business meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Lester Ransom.

Another feature of the afternoon was a display of garments contributed to the Langhorne Branch of Needlework Guild of America. Mrs. Elmer Pickett reported in the absence of Miss Marian Longshore, chairman of the branch. Mrs. Pickett stated that over 500 garments were donated this year, the most outstanding of the donations being two blankets from Langhorne Parents' Recreation Center, and Langhorne Terrace Auxiliary. ## THE LIST OF DONORS

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lipiarski, Bensalem, celebrated their 10th wedding anniversary by simultaneously giving a pint of their blood to the Red Cross Mobile Unit at the Harriman Hospital yesterday. It was Paul Lipiarski's third donation for which he received a silver lapel button. His wife, Stella, became a member of the gallon club having donated her eighth pint. She received her red ribbon of appreciation.

Norman Hetherington donated his eleventh pint of blood, remarking: "I feel glad that I am able to even the score." His brother, Sgt. Carl Pfeiffer, is now recuperating at the Deshon General Hospital at Butler, Pa., after having numerous transfusions.

Another eleventh pint donor was Jacob C. Schmidt, Jr., Bristol.

Dr. Ketchen was in charge of the unit, and Mrs. Theodore B. McFarlane and Mrs. Thomas R. Powell, Blood Donor Chairman, were all well satisfied with the day's work which resulted in 194 pints of blood being donated. They expressed the hope that today's donation will equal yesterday's or exceed it.

Although a number failed to keep their appointments on the first day, sufficient people were secured to reach their quota. Appointments yesterday were fulfilled to a much greater extent.

Langhorne Chapel Will Be Dedicated on Sunday

LANGHORNE, Nov. 4—The new chapel of Langhorne Methodist Church is to be dedicated tomorrow afternoon at the hour of four.

The addition to the church is located on the first floor, and its rich furnishings have been much admired.

The furniture of the chapel is white enamel with walnut trimmings. A red pebbled carpet covers the aisle and chancel. The altar is prominent. It divides the choir stalls, and on either side is the lectern and the pulpit. Behind the altar is an imported tudor fabric woven of gold cloth, and brought to America from Belgium before the outbreak of World War II. Riddle curtains of blue velvet set off the sides of the dossal. These are hung from gold cords on hand-wrought iron arms, topped with candle-holders.

All wood-work in the room is painted white, with a peach color used for the sides and front walls. The specially constructed ceiling is paneled, and painted a blue-white.

The lighting is accomplished with eight new wrought-iron fixtures, having upon them four different church designs. The entrance to the chapel is in keeping with the design of the architecture. Light tinted silver and gold stained glass panels set off the doors leading directly into the room. Monks cloth drapes are hung at the windows.

To the left as one enters the chapel provision has been made for three large Church School classrooms. Each has its distinctive color scheme. One room is blue, one tan and one green.

Back home hot baths with plenty of soap and water would not excite much comment, but to the Bristol doughboy and hundreds of his buddies just out of the lines, it was like a package from the states. Now they are looking and feeling their cleanest for the plunge into Germany.

Today's Quiet Moment

By The Rev. Lehman Strauss
Pastor
(Calvary Baptist Church)

O Lord, humbly we do bow before Thy holy presence to thank Thee for the Love of God which passeth knowledge. In these days of bloodshed and bitterness our hearts are encouraged as we meditate upon the love of the Father that sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world. We praise Thee that Thy love was commended toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. We rejoice that our Lord Jesus Christ proved His love for us by offering Himself as a Sacrifice on the Cross for our sins. Grant, O God, that men may see that, however vile their sins may be, Thy grace and love have no limit. Help us to put our pride under our feet, admit frankly that we are sinners, and believe the Gospel of Christ which is the power of God unto salvation. We pray in Jesus' Name. Amen.

Total of 133 Points

With five straight wins to its credit, Bristol High is topping the other grid teams in this section. The Bunnies won their fifth straight game Saturday and have Burlington to contend with this afternoon at Burlington. The victory over Langhorne broke that club's consecutive streak of three straight victories.

Coach Stackhouse's gridsters have scored a total of 133 points this season, doubling the count made by any other school in this section. The Bunnies have had 49 points scored against them.

Joe McDevitt, hard-hitting fullback of the Red and Gray, continued to set the pace of the scorers by adding seven points to bring his total of the season to 37. Lukens, of Langhorne, and Phil DiNatale, of Burlington, are tied for second place with 30 points while Howard Keyes, of Bristol, has 26 points. The records:

Bricker Warns of Communists' Plot To Seize Power

which packed Metropolitan Opera House, Governor Bricker denounced President Roosevelt for his fourth-term political associates, said "any man who aligns himself with the big city bosses, the Communists, fellow travelers and racket reformers cannot serve the interests of the people." His address was broadcast over a nation-wide hook-up.

Before coming to Philadelphia, Governor Bricker made a brief trip to Wilmington, Del., where he was greeted by thousands on the city's streets prior to addressing a crowd of 7,500 gathered on Rodney Square. Earlier last night he talked to a large crowd of Republicans at the Walt Whitman Hotel in Camden.

Upon the conclusion of his Opera House speech, he spoke before another large crowd of Northeast Republicans at Labor Lyceum Hall, 2nd and Cambria streets, and then departed for Youngstown, Ohio.

In addition to a capacity crowd which jammed the Opera House, an overflow of several thousands was packed on the sidewalks outside the building.

As the candidate and his entourage reached Labor Lyceum Hall he was greeted by several thousand outside of the auditorium waving red torchlights in an old-fashioned political reception. The hall itself was jammed with more than 2,000 enthusiastic voters.

At the Opera House rally, where he was introduced by Governor Edward Martin, Mr. Bricker indicted President Roosevelt for a series of attempts to bring about "one-man government," which, he said, Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Republican Presidential nominee, "despises."

He said President Roosevelt: "Wants to go it alone without being bothered about the restraints of Constitutional Government."

Has found the "restraints of an independent judiciary irksome" and by "packing" the Federal courts has converted our Federal judiciary into conclaves of New Deal ideologies.

By his "one-man rule" has plunged the Government into "confusion, arrogance and bickering," which resulted in a "confusion and vindictive brawl" since the start of the New Deal.

Failed to avail himself of the advice of his Cabinet and instead consulted the "Palace Guard," which included Rexford Tugwell, Harry Hopkins, Vice President Henry A. Wallace, Adolph Berle, the Kellys, the Flynns, the Penningtons, the Hillmans and the Browners, who are promoting the fourth-term campaign."

Resorted to deficit spending and provided jobs only through wartime prosperity, which has "only temporarily saved the face of the Administration and concealed the enormity of its economic blundering."

Further, he said the voters must decide who is better prepared to serve the Nation in the problems of lasting peace and solving the domestic problems of post-war America.

Pointing out Governor Dewey's fitness to solve these problems, the Vice Presidential candidate added, "America must be a government of laws again, unregimented by bureaucrats, unexploited by vocal reformers and unmolested by the peddlers of alien dogmas."

Asserting that America's fighting men want jobs without regimentation when they return from the battlefronts, he added they desire a "voice and a vote in the destiny" of a free government.

"These men," he asserted, "want to come home to a land of opportunity where they will have jobs in private industry, with good pay and a chance to get ahead. It is the duty of the government to equalize their opportunity with those who did not go."

"But there is something more deeply precious to them in America than farms and automobiles and the money they might pile up. In the heat of battle, facing death, they have become more keenly aware of the spiritual forces of life. Religion to them has a deeper and more significant meaning. Home, loved ones, children, the every-day pleasures of life which we so often take casually, mean more than ever to them today."

"I do not know how I could face them when they come back if I did not now do everything within my power to fight the forces of cynicism, of irreligion, of hate, of selfish greed, of class conflict and of alien philosophies of government which today are personified by Sidney Hillman and Earl Browder. They and their Communist fellow travelers are striving desperately to take over this government of ours while our sons and daughters are away from home fighting our battles."

"I do not want, and the American people do not want, our armed forces to return and find Sidney Hillman with his alien philosophies of government sitting at the right hand of the President, and Earl Browder, a draft dodger of the First World War and a convicted perjuror, sitting at the left hand of the President. If ever there was a time when the American people ought to be aroused it is now."

Addressing the Northeast rally, the Ohio Governor said that many Democrats were supporting the Republican ticket "to save the Democratic Party and the two-party system of government."

"Sidney Hillman and Earl Browder are not going to tie a noose around the necks of labor and lead them to the polls," he also declared.

Lieutenant Governor John C. Bell, Jr., presided at the meeting in the Northeast.

Before introducing the nominee at the Opera House meeting, Governor Martin asserted that he and Republican State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor had completed a survey which indicated the party's national ticket would sweep Pennsylvania next Tuesday.

"Our people are aroused," said the Pennsylvania executive. "They want a real America for our boys when they come back from the fighting fronts."

Also addressing the rally were three motion picture stars, Gloria Swanson, Adolphe Menjou and Edie Brickman, who are active in the Dewey-Bricker campaign, and the Republican candidates for Statewide offices, Republican City Chairman David W. Harris presided.

At Wilmington, Governor Bricker charged that Ohio Democratic leaders, through Albert A. Horstman, national committeeman, were seeking to intimidate civil service employees, formerly part of the State Employment Service, into supporting Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy.

Similar efforts are being made to whip the 100,000 other Federal employees located in Ohio into line, he added.

He also attacked the Hillman-controlled C. I. O. Political Action Committee and said he "did not intend to have the Communists lick us in the name of the Democrats." Further, Mr. Bricker advocated taking 500,000 "able-bodied, arrogant bureaucrats from the Federal payroll and putting them into the armed forces."

Educator Speaks To Travel Club; Timely Subject

his address to the club women, expressed the hope for a better type of education in the post war era, and commenced his talk by considering the elementary meaning of education. "Education is not a pouring of facts into the student, but rather a stimulation of the student to an interest in this amazing world in which he lives."

The Philadelphian dwelt mainly on the manner in which the army and navy programs of accelerated study have affected the field of education. That a number of important steps have been gained was one fact brought out by Prof. Wittmeyer. He told what the programs consist of, and informed how they were brought about by the sudden plunging of the nation into war. "Actually it was not until 1943 that the programs of instruction as now presented were introduced into the colleges and universities of the United States. They were to be available to as many students as could be accommodated and who showed promise. The work of the Army Specialized Training Program went well until the shortage of manpower was seen in the army, then the plan was greatly curtailed, the students dropping from 145,000 to 35,000, with those of other groups dropping proportionately. Thus the plan was in operation a very short time. The navy program dropped considerably also."

In May of this year the program for the 17-year-old group filled the gap slightly the speaker informed, he adding that the colleges are much concerned with the question of continuance of federal assistance after the war. Prof. Wittmeyer explained that the college educators have been left in charge of development of the pupils even though the army and navy invaded the campus. "Most of the courses demanded are practical ones, the instruction being confined to the medical field, dentistry, veterinary work, engineering, physics, chemistry, meteorology, etc."

The popularity of visual education was mentioned, the army and navy naturally taking advantage of such. Turning attention to the new manner of teaching languages, the auditory method used by the service branches were highly commended by the speaker. He told how native teachers are secured if possible, the students being introduced to the sound of the language at once. In many cases they can speak several words of the new language in a few days, carry on classroom conversation in a few weeks, and a few months later speak the language quite well. "A friend reminded me that it took a war to wake up the educators to the best method of teaching languages."

That extra-curricular activities have taken a "black-seat" due to the pressing of four-year college courses into three years was another point considered. "But the students appear to lose interest and are not as 'sharp' as the second and third term arrive. It is pretty much of a grind, day after day. After the first few months the boys merely get a resigned air." On the other hand the speaker considered it a splendid thing that young men who would never have had opportunity to attend college are thus privileged today if they show promise.

"Most educators feel the accelerated program is too much to expect of a student—to do four years work in three. Next summer many colleges are going back to the regular four year plan."

The speaker added that "On the whole we haven't achieved the thing that education really is. The new plan is no real test of a student's ability to evaluate between the questions of great moment. We realize we must return to the liberal aspects of education, and help the student to find himself at home in the world."

The program also included a presentation by Mrs. David Sheerer, Jr., of current legislation on education in Pennsylvania.

The business meeting followed the address of the day, with Mrs. Harry Neher presiding.

Members were greeted upon arrival by Mrs. John Hargrave and Mrs. Clarence Moyer.

17 divorces, an unusually high number for so few applicants. During October in 1943 there were 67 licenses granted, exactly the same number as 1942's October. It was only five years ago in October that a total of 266 couples were granted marriage licenses in the same office, compared to 67 this October.

There was no marked disparity in the ages of the October couples applying for licenses and the docket shows that practically every female applicant was employed at jobs other than housework.

visible reluctance to working on the one side with the big-city bosses, the Kellys and Hagues, and on the other with the Communist-CIO politico-labor bosses like Hillman and Browder.

Running on his own steam, with his known background, Truman couldn't muster a corporal's guard of Americans who would take him seriously as a candidate for President.

Yet, thanks to Roosevelt, Hillman, and expediency, he is potentially in line for that post this very minute.

The appalling picture which Americans must face in this election is that a vote for the Democratic slate is a vote for a state of affairs in which Truman might one day walk into the vexing and delicate postwar peace conferences—with the invisible figures of Sidney Hillman on one side and of Communist Earl Browder on the other, with those of the big-city Democratic bosses pushing him on from the rear.

He might walk in as President of the United States, holding in his grasp the welfare, peace and destiny of this nation.

Roosevelt's reelection contemplates such possibility—contemplates it as the deliberate choice of the invisible leadership of the Democratic Party.

Democrats and Republicans alike know the answer—"It's time for a change!"

is the future of America

AMERICA was not always a land of fruited plains and alabaster cities. The good earth was here, the mountains and the plains. Priceless deposits were in the earth. But it took hard labor, courage, and intelligence on the part of courageous men and women to develop these gifts of nature.

The pioneers who settled our country and gradually moved west had faith in education to help them develop a land in which people might live as free men. So our schools had their beginnings and over the years they have been developed into the school system of today.

The faith of these pioneers is the inheritance of our generation. While the physical frontier has gone there are still unlimited opportunities of new kinds in our country.

To keep the faith with our children, teachers and parents thruout America have maintained the schools in the face of many wartime handicaps. For on the home front, the schools are the first line of defense for tomorrow's America.

Visit your schools during American Education Week November 5-11. See what they are doing to help win the war and lay the foundations for the peace to come. For in the schools today is the future of America.
